

MIAMI BEACH
The Redbury South Beach
 South Beach

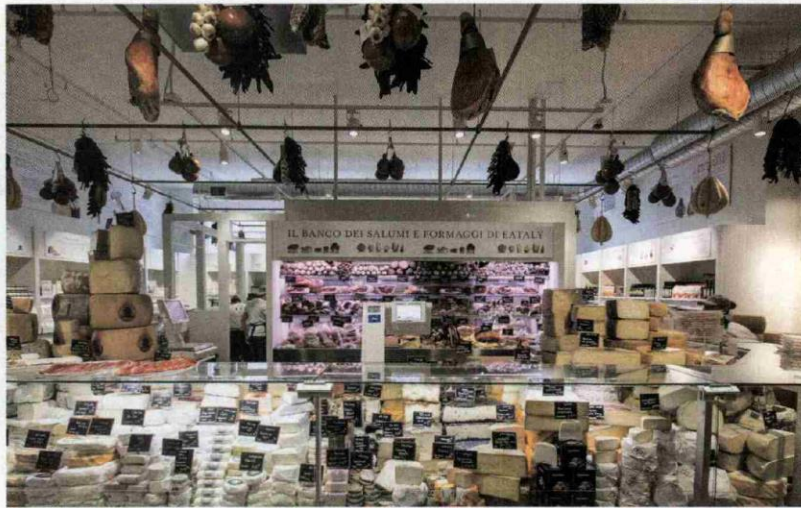

Art Basel served as the perfect debut for The Redbury South Beach, the art deco extension of its Hollywood namesake, as it joined its sister properties, The Raleigh Hotel across the street and the SLS Hotel South Beach nearby, both accessible to guests. Rock 'n' Roll-inspired; pictures of old Fillmore Miami Beach concert posters dot the walls; and each of its spacious 69 rooms comes with record players, along with vinyl selections curated by Capitol Records. There's a rooftop deck for sun revelry; the on-site resto Lorenzo helmed by a James Beard Award-winning chef for foodies; and neighboring Lincoln Road for the fashion-forward. 1776 Collins Ave. 305.604.1776. theredbury.com/southbeach

PUERTO MORELOS
Grand Residences Riviera Cancun
 Riviera Maya

Already a Leading Hotels of the World affiliate, Grand Residences Riviera Cancun by Royal Resorts sets a high bar. The expansive hotel, hidden in a quaint fishing village amid the Riviera Maya and Yucatán, draws inspiration from Mexico's grand haciendas. Guests can luxuriate in one of the 103 junior or master suites, with a choice of ocean-view or beachfront terraces. A private roof garden, Jacuzzi and bar and grill all come with the four-bedroom penthouse Presidential Suite, which sleeps 13. Other highlights include a white-sand beach, top-notch dining, spirited tequila tastings and a world-class spa. Blvd. El Cid, Unidad 28.52.998.872.8130. grandresidencesrivieracancun.com

ROTTERDAM
citizenM
 City Centre

Centrally located in the heart of Oude Haven—an area anchored by the city's oldest harbor dating back to the 14th century, where hip bars and restos are now plentiful—near the Rotterdam Blaak railway station, citizenM Rotterdam, the latest smash from the affordable luxe hotel brand is a winning choice thanks to its convenience and style. The 151-room completely non-smoking retreat—just the fifth overall and the third in its native Netherlands—is packed with amenities, including extra-large king-size beds with luxurious bedding, wall-to-wall windows, rain showers, free Wi-Fi and free movies on demand. Even better, citizenM is slated to hit both New York City and Paris this year. Gelderse Plein 50. 31.(0).10.8108.100. citizenm.com/rotterdam

EAT & DRINK

ATLANTA
Tabla

Tasty modern Indian cuisine in sleek and contemporary digs, in buzzing Midtown no less, makes the cozy Tabla a pleasant rarity. Serving lunch and dinner, Tabla scores with a variety of naan that includes garlic; dishes like the shrimp goan, prepared in a spicy coconut and mustard seed curry; and the scrumptious dessert gulab jamun, made of sweet milk dumpling and vanilla ice cream. 77 12th St. NE, Ste. 2. 404.464.8571. tablaatlanta.com

DETROIT
The Grille Midtown

Thanks to auto-centric accents like the car grill protruding out of a nearby wall and such comfy lunch and dinner selections as crab cake sliders, lamb chops and the RED veggie burger, The Grille Midtown has quickly endeared itself to Motor City denizens looking for quick casual fare in a chill setting. 3919 Woodward Ave. 313.832.0892. thegrillemidtown.com

CHICAGO
Eataly

It's hard to miss Mario Batali and his crew opening up shop in the Windy City. Stretching 63,000 square feet, the foodie playground (or, as one early patron dubbed it, "a Disney-like foodtopia") is officially one of the city's hottest spots. With seven boutique eateries, including La Pizza & La Pasta and Birreria, a Nutella corner, mozzarella lab, gelateria, cooking school, wine bar and store Vino Libero, a microbrewery and much more, it's true to its mantra: "Eataly cooks what it sells and sells what it cooks." 45 E. CHARLOTTE
Stagioni

Good food drives this cozy 90-seat eatery housed in the historic Tuscan Revival-style Reynolds-Gourmanjenko House in posh Myers Park. Reflecting its Italian namesake, meaning "seasons," executive chef Larry Schreiber uses fresh, local ingredients for a sophisticated seasonal menu of handmade pastas, wood-fired pizzas and slow-cook meats that mingle history and good taste at this third offering from the Moffett Restaurant Group that aims to please. 715 Providence Rd. 704.348.2320. stagionict.com
